

King Street Cycleway

Artist's impression of proposed King Street Cycleway (for illustrative purposes)

The NSW Government is proposing to provide the missing link of the King Street Cycleway.

King Street is an important connection to the Sydney CBD for cyclists, connecting to the Pitt Street Cycleway and bike routes to the city's east and south. The project would involve extending the existing separated cycleway between Clarence Street and Pitt Street. Providing this important missing link would improve the connectivity of bike networks in the CBD. We are inviting the community to share their views on the proposed design. Feedback closes 5pm Monday 6 February.

Proposed Changes

Project Benefits

- Delivers a connected cycleway network across the CBD
- Encourages more people to ride bikes
- Provides a safe option for cyclists
- Connects cyclists to key public transport hubs
- Relieves pressure off our roads

What Happens Next?

Investigation works are planned to take place in late February. We will notify the community of this work.

We will consider all feedback and results from our investigation work and continue to keep the community informed.

Have Your Say

Scan the QR code and provide your feedback via our short survey.

1800 491 566 (during business hours)

If you need help understanding this information, please contact the Translating and Interpreting Service on 131 450 and ask them to call us on 1800 491 566.