

Continuing night work at the intersection of Narellan Road and Appin Road in Campbelltown

The NSW Government is funding this proposal as part of its $300 million Urban Roads Pinch Point Program, which aims to reduce congestion and improve travel times on Sydney's business corridors.

Roads and Maritime Services is continuing to improve the intersection of Narellan Road and Appin Road in Campbelltown. Upcoming work includes:

- demolishing and reconstructing traffic islands
- widening the southern side of Narellan Road
- removing and reinstalling new traffic signal posts
- creating new drainage and utility pits within the road median and adjacent to the intersection
- relocating and installing new light and power poles on the south west corner of the intersection and along Narellan Road.

This project aims to improve efficiency, safety and congestion on Sydney's road network.
