To whom it may concern,

Any vehicle has only the tyres and wheels which keep it in contact with the road, as such wheels and tyres are therefore paramount in the ongoing safety of a vehicle.

Clause 10 (4) (f) does not reflect the importance of wheels and tyres in the ongoing safety of vehicles and should be removed from this clause. When you next see a vehicle trying to balance on three wheels because it wasn't replaced correctly...

Yours sincerely
