430 bus stop changes in Mosman

Plans for changes to some bus stops and parking along the 430 bus route (previously known as the M30) in Mosman have been approved.

This work involves modifications to five existing bus stops from Spit Junction to Taronga Zoo on Military Road and Bradleys Head Road, to better accommodate bendy buses and improve customer boarding, safety and traffic flow.

What's changing and why?

The 430 route is predominantly serviced by bendy buses. Due to their long length, they are unable to pull in close to the kerb at some bus stops.

The following changes will be made to improve customer boarding, safety and traffic flow:

- the removal of the bus stop on Military Road at Mandolong Road and installation of three new 1 hour parking spaces
- the extension of the bus stop zone at Spit Junction
- the extension of the bus stop zone on Military Road at Raglan Street and the relocation of two parking spaces
- the extension of the bus stop zone on Bradleys Head Road at Thompson Street and removal of one parking space
- the removal of the 430 service from the bus stop on Bradleys Head Road at Prince Albert Street.

You can view a map and more information about the changes over the page.

Next steps

The majority of the changes will occur between Monday 10 August and Monday 17 August 2020. Transport for NSW will keep the community and key stakeholders informed, including local schools, businesses, residents and customers.

Changes will be communicated to customers through signage at the bus stops and trip planning apps and the transportnsw.info website will also be updated.
