October 2018

Introduction

Key Roads Performance report outlines the time taken to travel along major road routes in New South Wales during peak periods. It is intended to help the public better understand how well the road network is performing and is a step towards empowering road users to make optimal travel decisions.

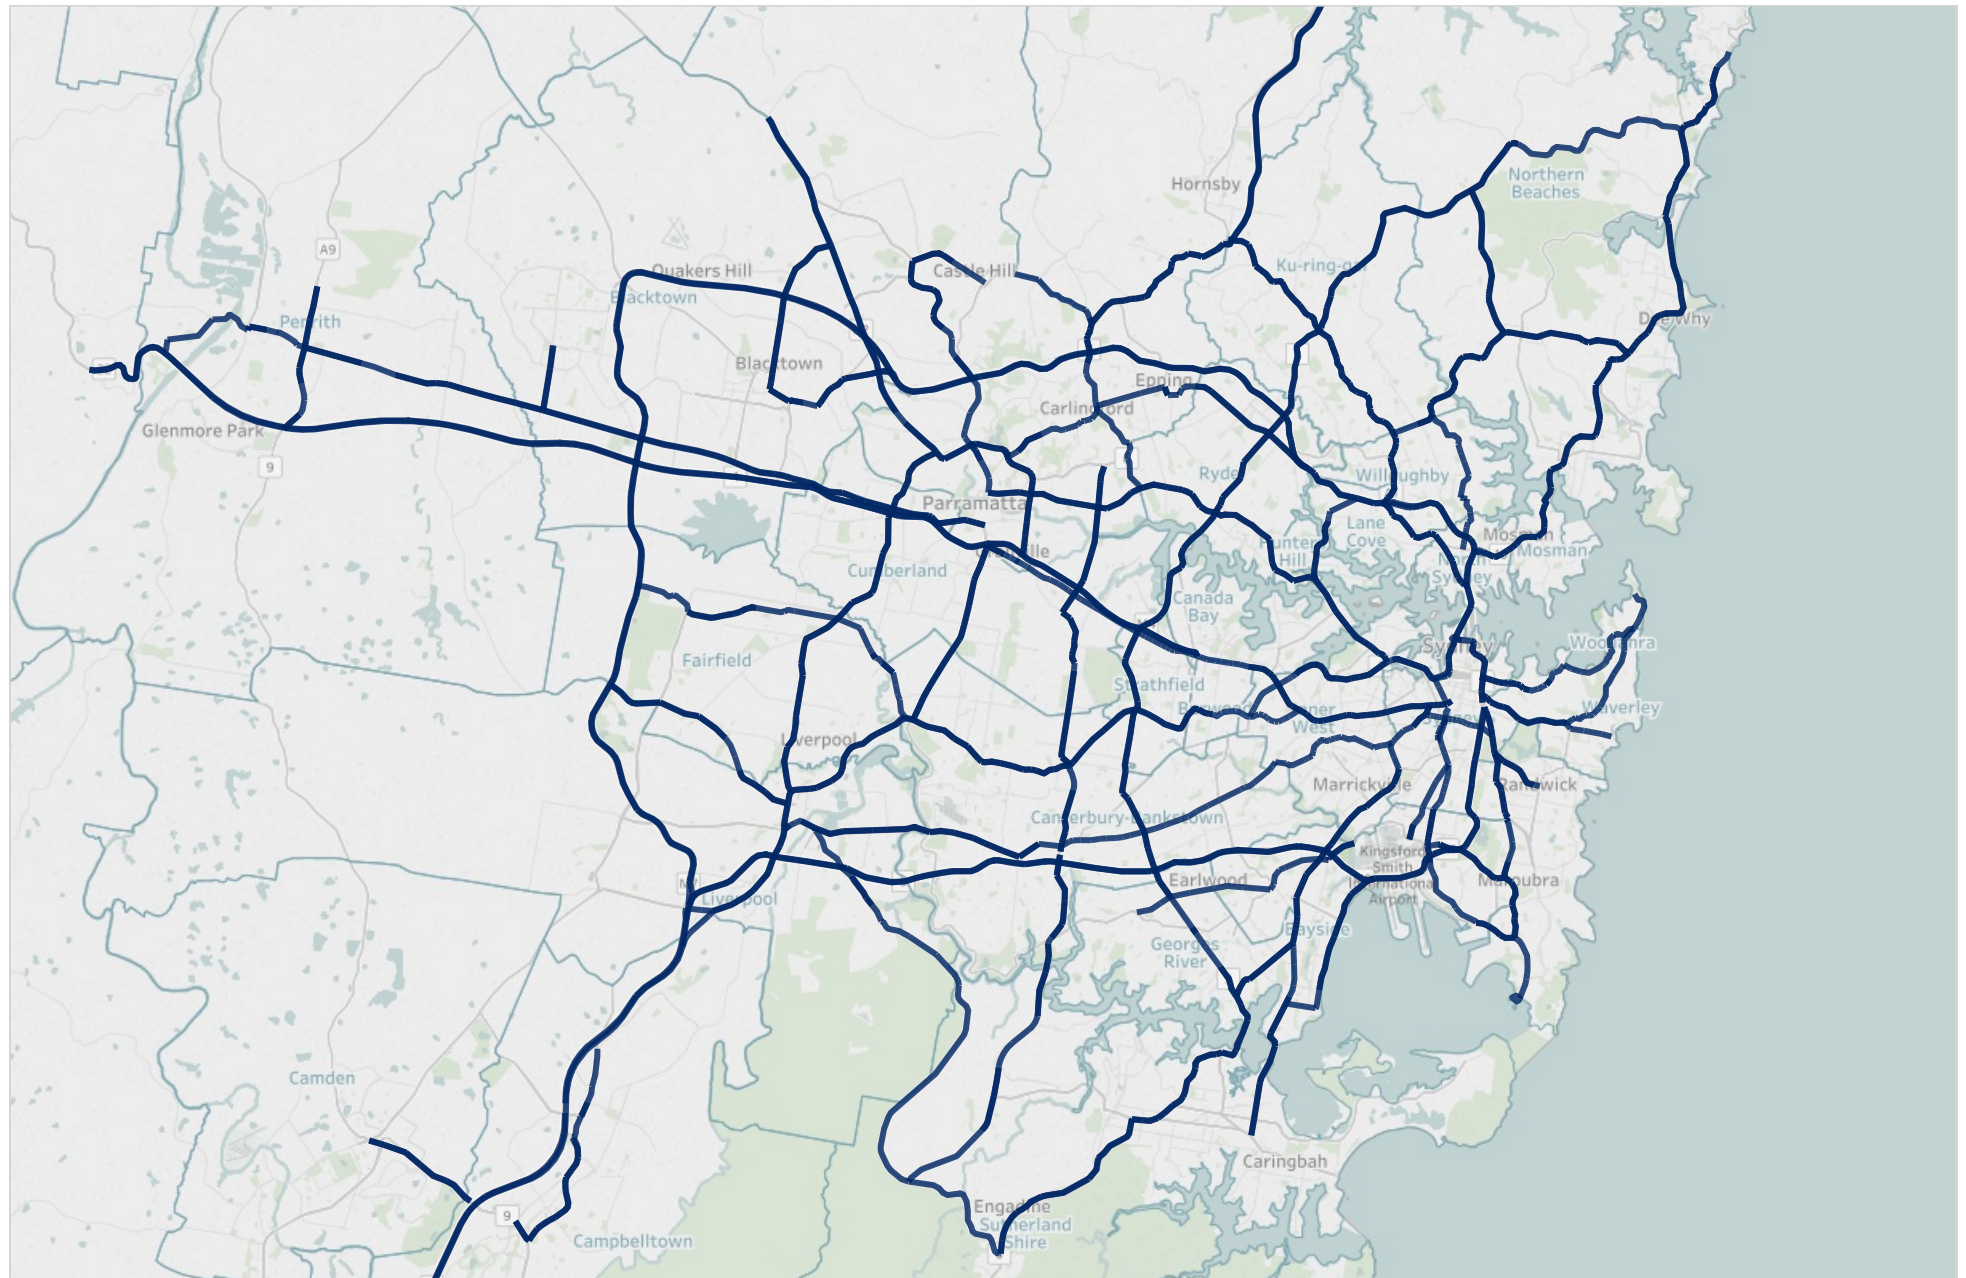

The trips described in this report cover many major roads in Sydney, Newcastle, and Wollongong, with other key roads in New South Wales to be added in future reports. This report may be refined and additional roads may be included to address community needs.

For each trip, this report provides the travel time during the AM and PM peak periods and a detailed description of the trip.

The AM peak period is defined as the time period during which 75% of the morning traffic volume occurs. Morning is considered to be between midnight and midday. The PM peak period is defined as the time period during which 75% of the afternoon traffic volume occurs. Afternoon is considered to be between midday and midnight.
