Greener construction and sustainable in operation

The north commuter car park has been built with a focus on reducing carbon emission and using innovative construction methods. Adopting world leading sustainability initiatives, including artificial intelligence powered energy monitoring systems, portable battery systems in place of diesel generators, and hydrogen generators.

The achievements include:

- 94% of construction and demolition waste was recycled
- Diesel consumption was reduced by up to 90% with over 60,000 litres of diesel and over 100 tonnes of carbon dioxide saved
- Over 800 rooftop solar panels installed to help power the building
- 10 electric vehicle charging stations and capacity for more to be added in the future
- A rainwater capture system to water the car park gardens
- Carbon dioxide injected concrete mix in footpaths, a landmark trial for future concrete designs.

Sustainability initiatives

The project has developed world leading sustainability initiatives that will pave the way for future projects to adopt greener construction methods and create resilient and future-focused infrastructure, supporting Transport for NSW's Net Zero and climate change commitments.

Upcoming public art

Artist's impression of upcoming sculpture and mural artwork by Shane Smithers.

Building on the themes explored in the public art installations at Leppington and Edmondson Park South commuter car parks, Dharug artist Shane Smithers will introduce two new art pieces at this newly opened north commuter car park in the coming months.

Working with Tharawal Local Aboriginal Land Council, the themes address the sorrow felt by local Aboriginal communities due to the destruction of Cumberland woodland and native flora. While respecting elders' wishes to honour the lost woodland, the artworks will also incorporate more optimistic themes.

The first artwork is a sculpture of a tree stump with cravings on top. As water settles on the tree stump, it reflects the sky, symbolising the reconnection between earth and sky. The second artwork is a tree mural on the building wall at the car park entrance, echoing the style of the "Ghost Trees" at the southern commuter car park and the tree stump sculpture. The 11-metre-tall tree reinforces the connection between sky and earth, projecting hope for a better future.

The commuter car park projects at Edmondson Park were delivered as part of the Commuter Car Park Program.
