June 2025

Transport for NSW acknowledges the Traditional Custodians of the lands on which we work and pays respect to Elders past and present.

Work will commence on improving the access to the University of Sydney I.A Watson Grains Research Centre on the Newell Highway north of Narrabri from Monday 16 June.

What work are we doing?

Work will be carried out on the Newell Highway at the access to the University of Sydney I.A Watson Grains Research Centre to improve safety as part of the Newell Highway Heavy Duty Pavement Upgrades between Narrabri and Moree.

Work will include:

- widening the road on a 700-metre section of the Highway to provide a new dedicated right hand turning lane
- line marking
- culvert replacement work.

When and where we'll be working

Work will commence on Monday 16 June and is expected to take around six weeks to complete, weather permitting.

We'll be working from 7am to 6pm from Monday to Friday.

We have included a map to show the location of the work.

What will this mean for you?

You may notice noise from machinery and equipment, traffic control, signage, and reduced speed limits in place.

Traffic changes

There will be temporary traffic changes in place to ensure the work zone is safe. This includes:

- single lane closures
- reduced speed limit to 40 km/h during work hours
- intermittent stopping.

Access to the Research Centre will be maintained while work is being carried out.

Please keep to speed limits and follow the direction of traffic controllers and signs. Motorists should allow up to 5 minutes of additional travel time.

Managing our impacts

We aim to manage our work to minimise impacts to the community and the environment.

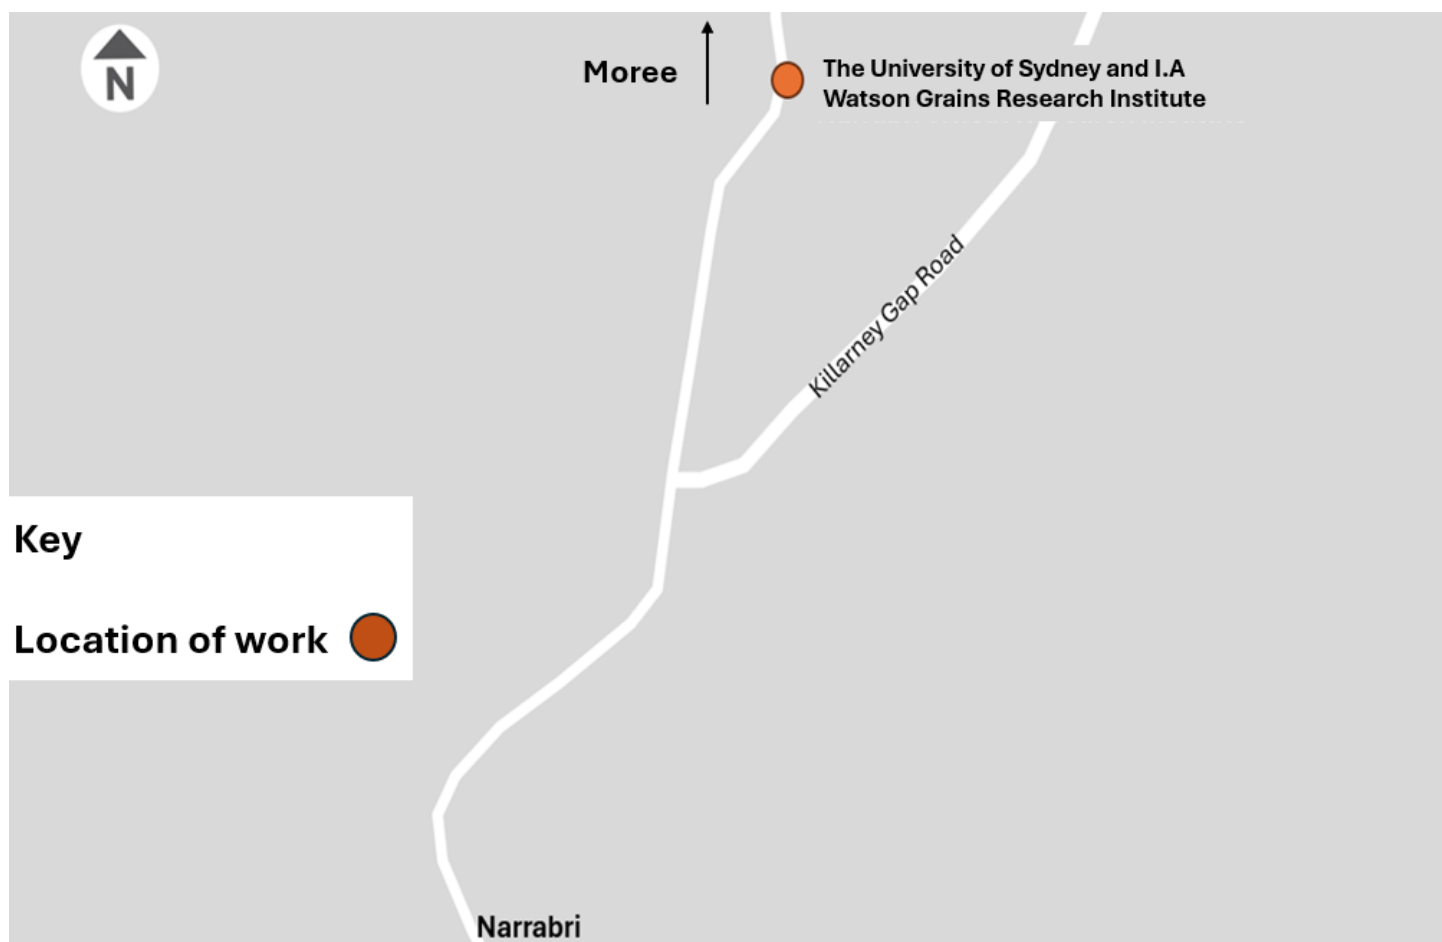

This includes:

- reducing our noise as much as possible
- turning off machinery, equipment, and vehicles when not in use
- maintaining access at all times.

We will continue to notify impacted stakeholders about the progress of the work.
