

New Intercity Fleet Maintenance Facility

PROJECT UPDATE - OPENING OF NEW ACCESS BRIDGE

The NSW Government is delivering a New Intercity Fleet to replace trains carrying customers between Sydney and the Central Coast, Newcastle, the Blue Mountains and the South Coast.

The detailed design and construction of the new maintenance facility at Kangy Angy, which will service and maintain the New Intercity Fleet, is being delivered by John Holland on behalf of Transport for NSW.

The facility includes flood free access for local residents via a new bridge that will connect Enterprise Drive to Orchard Road.

Opening of new access bridge - Thursday 30 April

On 6pm Thursday 30 April, John Holland will open the new access bridge to the general public.

The new access bridge will provide direct dual lane access into the maintenance facility site and a link to Enterprise Drive for residents on Orchard Road.

For the safety of pedestrians and motorists, use of the bridge will temporarily be restricted to motorists. No pedestrian access across the bridge is permitted, including cyclists and on horse.

Please note, the bridge and surrounding roads will remain a work site. There will continue to be frequent heavy vehicle movements on these roads. The temporary carpark on Orchard Road will remain in use by project staff.

Access to site

Construction vehicles will now access the site via the new access bridge. This will remove vehicle movements from Turpentine, Ourimbah and Orchard roads.

Driver safety

For the safety of motorists, overtaking is not permitted on the access bridge or the surrounding approach roads. Motorists are required to observe the posted speed limits of 20km/hr and 40km/hr.
